During this activity you will create your own colour wheel working with hot and Cold colours.

What colours do you think are hot and which ones are cold?

You will need:
- Old magazines/ newspapers, packaging wrappers or any other coloured materials
- Blank paper
- Glue stick

Work your way through your magazines selecting colours that are either hot or cold.

Tear these pieces out.
Sort into piles such as: reds, yellows, blues etc.

Now put these into two piles—hot colours and cold colours

Within these colour piles, sort them lightest to darkest.

Choosing either the hot or cold pile first, start by gluing the lightest colour in the centre of your page. Start to add the other colours in order of darkness as you spiral out.

Do the same with the other colour group.

You have created your own hot and cold colour wheels!
With a larger piece of paper, you could also create a full colour circle showing both hot and cold colours.
